Dear Juanjuan Jia and Margarita Shablya:

I see. This then must have been some kind of mistake in the backend that lists the courses. It is surprising and quite unfortunate.

The problem is that this course really should not be a master-level course, and creating exceptions will, if known, cause other people to demand equal treatment in the future.

But I also understand that this situation is very bad for you and I would like to help you. So, I am willing to make this course count towards the master module CS-MWP-CNP for once. But, please, be aware that this is an exception and please refrain from communicating this either at all or at least in any other way than that this is an exception to compensate for an unfortunate mistake.

Best
Michael Franke

It was appalling to find out a half semester later that it got changed to only Bachelor program. Unfortunately, there is no screenshots that would prove the change. As a matter of fact, it would not come to our mind that such a change could have taken place.

It is advised that you nonetheless work on all of the stuff assigned for this week in this week already, because otherwise it might be too much to do in one week.
